LEARNING ABOUT CLIMATE CHANGE - WHY DOES IT RAIN?

RAIN CLOUD EXPERIMENT

Here is a super simple science experiment that teaches children about clouds and rain. It's great fun for the whole classroom and this rain cloud science experiment only uses commonly found ingredients.

1. Fill your jar about three quarters full with water from the tap.

2. Use the shaving foam to create a cloud on top of the water. Let the foam settle a bit.

3. Now drop liquid fun dye into the 'cloud'. As your cloud fills up, the fun dye will fall down into the water creating a rain like effect.

WHAT YOU WILL NEED FOR THE WHOLE CLASS?

33 Children

1x 125101 Giant Bulb Pipettes 230mm 6pk $11.95

1x 112290 EC Craft Liquid Fun Dye 500ml - Blue $10.95

33x 111982 Glass Mug With Lid 500ml $3.50

Additional Items: Shaving Cream & Tap Water

To nurture a child's love for water we believe it is important for them to play with it and learn about it. What better way to play than to have a great time pumping water using the included water pump and watching the water flow down the channels that the child has placed themselves. Using special hooks that lock into the wall the kids can then place the water channels strategically in the hooks to try and get the water back into the bucket without wasting any water. With the included pump the kids can learn how to minimize water wastage. Bucket not included.

Honey Ants & Coolamon

Aboriginal people have developed, through their hunter / gatherer lifestyle, exceptional tracking skills to hunt animals, identify and locate edible plants, as well as finding sources of water. Children are taught as soon as they can walk to track their mother and siblings footprints. Elders teach children how to recognise the patterns and shapes that represent the tracks of animals by drawing into the sand.

The National Quality Standard (NQS) makes it essential for Early Childhood Education and Care (ECEC) services and educators to understand and help children learn about the history, culture and contemporary lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. Australian Aboriginals have eaten native animal and plant foods for an estimated 60,000 years. These Australian made products celebrate this cultural knowledge and traditions by allowing Educators to quickly incorporate traditional bush foods into their curriculum.
